Reportagem

Campanha dos 16 dias de activismo é marcada por palestras contra a violência baseada no género nas escolas e nos mercados da província do Huambo

No âmbito do projecto Espaço Mulher, implementado pela Development Workshop em três municípios (Huambo, Chicala Cholohanga e Cachiungo) que conta com o apoio da Rooftops Canadá, em parceria com o Gabinete da Acção Social Família e Igualdade do Género (GASFIG) e o apoio da Administração Municipal, realizaram palestras durante o mês de Novembro e Dezembro dos 16 dias de activismo, sobre a violência baseada no género, em três escolas do primeiro ciclo e três mercados centrais do Huambo.

As palestras foram conduzidas pela mobilizadora social da DW, Aérica Venâncio, que referiu que a violência baseada no gênero é qualquer acto de agressão Física, sexual, psicológica, económica ou patrimonial, direccionada a uma pessoa por causa do género, afectando principalmente as mulheres. Destacou também a importância de denunciar para o 15015, qualquer forma de violência baseada no género e reforçou o papel da comunicação comunitária como ferramenta de transformação social.

A primeira palestra ocorreu no dia 28 de Novembro às 8 horas, na escola Rei Livongue com participação massiva de mais de 2000 mil estudantes. No mesmo dia, no período da tarde, com início as 13 horas, deu-se a palestra no colégio Princesa Diana, com cerca de 750 estudantes. No dia 02 de Dezembro às 09 horas, realizou-se a palestra no colégio Comandante Dangereux, com adesão significativa dos estudantes.

At the end of the meeting, the Director shared her testimony, stating that her ability to lead the session was made possible by her participation in several training sessions organized under the Espaço Mulher Project. 3. Challenges

- Frequent changes in the leadership of state institutions can, in many cases, undermine institutional engagement and continuity. Therefore, it is critically important to identify and implement strategies that ensure the active involvement of mid-level staff, thereby promoting greater stability and sustainability of ongoing initiatives.

- The mobility of technical staff within Municipal Administrations has been negatively affecting the implementation of SAGIT in those administrations

- Periods of political tension, which typically occur during electoral cycles, may lead to a reduction in the frequency of project activities, particularly those related to the capacity building of members of Civil Society Organizations.

- The government's initiative to establish a single window for land rights administration is creating challenges in the issuance of land titles, as the system is currently not functioning properly. As a result, municipal administrations have been compelled to suspend the process of issuing land title certificates.

Lessons Learned

- Activity planning must always be aligned with the country's political trends with local repercussions.
- Sharing monthly project program with partner institutions motivates their members to participate in the project and strengthens the partnership
- Assigning certain responsibilities in the training process to state institutions is a mechanism for transferring capacities to ensure sustainability.
- Although this is a situation beyond the project's control, it should encourage technicians to remain in their current positions.
